

OUR TEACHING & LEARNING INTENT

Our aim is to ensure that all practitioners are ethically-driven in their determination and drive to close the gaps in knowledge held at any given point for our KPHS students. We will make clear to our students what they need to understand, how much knowledge they have learnt and committed to memory and how much they've 'not yet' acquired.

We will ensure that, through our teaching practice, we check understanding in a systematic way. we will enable our students to speak mindfully and with a level of assurance and increasing confidence levels in a way that means they are articulate and informed citizens once they leave KPHS. We will instil a love of learning and see it as a challenge to broaden their knowledge acquisition. We make ourselves reflective on a daily basis so that our strive to be exceptional practitioners is continuous.

Each student's experience of a subject will equip him/her with the essential knowledge needed to broaden their understanding of the community in which they live and the wider society. Each enquiry question asked of a child will open their minds to a new piece of learning that will equip them not only for exams but in broadening their general knowledge in a way that allows them to compete locally and nationally. We will enlighten them, allow them to be curious learners and enjoy not only classroom learning but also the essential learning that takes place in the wider context of school.

Gail Candy – KPHS Teaching & Learning – September 2020.

